RESCUE CREWS BREAK INTO ARGONAUT MINE

EXPLORATION PARTIES START SEARCH FOR 47 ENTOMBED GOLD MINERS

Men Have Been Imprisoned for 21 Days and Regarded as a Miracle if Any are Found Alive; Had Little if Any Food With Them

Strong Air Draft Rushing Through the Argonaut Mine Proved That There Were No Caveins, and Gave Hope of Speedy Progress in the Search

By United Press

At the Argonaut Gold Mine, Jackson, Calif., Sept. 18.—Rescue crews broke through into the Argonaut mine shortly before 7 a. m. today.

Exploration parties immediately entered to take up the search for the 47 miners who have been imprisoned for 21 days.

A strong air draft rushing through the Argonaut mine proved that there were no caveins, and gave hope of speedy progress in the search.

Nine Rescue Crews at Work

Bulletin, 1:30 p. m.—Nine rescue crews which entered the Argonaut mine today in search for 47 miners imprisoned for three weeks, were expected to begin actual search for the imprisoned men this afternoon.

The first party which entered following word that the tunnel driven from the Kennedy into the Argonaut had broken through, was unable to proceed with its work, the opening being found unsafe.

Work of timbering was started immediately, and the exploration party remained at hand ready to resume its search.

Heavy currents of air sweeping through the shafts with such force that miners' lanterns were nearly blown out, made ventilation an additional problem. There was danger of this draft kindling the fire.

Two Hours Pass and No Report

When two hours had passed without report of any men dead or alive being found, the strain among watchers grew intense. It was pointed out by the exploration parties that they are forced to proceed slowly and in addition much of its work was required descending ladders throughout the main ways, and carefully scanning each step of the way.

FIRE RUINS BUS ON FIRST TRIP

Winona, Sept. 18.—An automobile bus valued at $6,000 was a mass of ruins at Minneka near here, as the result of flames which started from an undetermined cause on its initial trip from Minneapolis to Winona. The bus contained no passengers. The driver, fearing an explosion, abandoned the machine on the main highway when the blaze spread rapidly.

TAX CONFERENCE IN MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Sept. 18.—Tax experts from all parts of the United States and Canada are gathering here today for the 15th annual conference of the National Tax Association which begins tonight at the Curtis hotel.

Sessions will be held daily until next Friday. Leading tax authorities will discuss present state and local taxation. It will discuss present proposed changes in law affecting many states, including Minnesota.

In the absence of Governor Preus, Lieutenant Governor L. W. Collins will deliver the opening address to-night.

NATIONAL BANK CALL FOR FRIDAY, SEPT. 15

(By United Press.)
Washington, Sept. 18.—The comptroller of the currency today issued a call for the condition of national banks as of Friday, September 15.

MORE THAN 40,000 STRIKING SHOPMEN EXPECTED BACK TO WORK TODAY

(By United Press.)

Chicago, Sept. 18.—More than 40,000 striking shopmen were expected to return to their jobs on western roads today. At the same time negotiations were launched to send thousands of additional men back.

Bert M. Jewell, president of the shopmen, left here last night for New York where it was reported that peace settlements with the New York Central and the southern roads were called off at the last meeting. Jewell refused to discuss the matter, but intimated that the difficulties were minor ones and that adjustment would be effected.

To Get Behind Keller

Washington, Sept. 18.—The American Federation of Labor was prepared today to get behind Representative Oscar E. Keller, Minnesota, republican, in the fight to impeach Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty.

New York Central Breaks off Parley

New York, Sept. 18.—The New York Central's negotiations with representatives of striking shopmen broke down in disagreement Saturday night.

The railroad issued the conference abruptly and issued a statement to the effect that the workers had injected new demands into the discussion.

The line said it had 32,951 men out of a normal 35,192 at work.

Strike leaders conferred with the central committee declining to comment on the break.

To Be Tried for Rail Disturbance

Minneapolis, Sept. 18.—Six men charged with violation of the federal injunction by causing a disturbance at the Shoreham shops of the Soo Line, Sept. 2, were held for trial before District Judge Wilber F. Booth, Sept. 20. The men held, on the filing of information by United States District Attorney Lafayette French, are Arthur Evans, William Walthour, Eugene Thrall, Stanley Solaski, William Wenger and John English. Eight other men charged with strike disturbances on the Milwaukee and Great Northern roads appeared, but no date was set for their trial.

Vote to Postpone Hearing

Washington, Sept. 18.—Republican members of the house judiciary committee voted today to postpone hearing ings on the impeachment proceedings instituted against Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty until reopening of congress in December.

This action was taken less than an hour after it had been announced that Samuel Untermyer, nationally known attorney, was to assist Keller in an effort to carry out his impeachment of the attorney general. Hearings were to have begun tomorrow.

Brands It as Rumor and Hearsay

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Branding the government case of the Daugherty injunction here as a mass of hearsay rumors and opinion, Donald Richberg, attorney for the shopmen, opened the argument for the defense today.

Richberg declared the government had not proven that any conspiracy among the shopmen existed, and asserted the government had not named one of the defense connected with the organization in its charge.

He asked the court to disregard all of the affidavits. Richberg stated he would probably ask a motion to dismiss the injunction be considered, but added he wanted to point out a few facts first.

Men Returning to Work Drive Out Replacement Men

Clinton, Iowa, Sept. 18.—A riot broke out here at the Northwestern shops today when 1,000 shopmen returned to work.

Replacement men at the plant were driven from the shops by returning shopmen who resumed their duties this morning pending final adjustment of the strike.

About 25 men, mostly in the commissary department, were all that remained when police arrived. The others had escaped from the shops.

Untermyer Heard From

New York, Sept. 18.—Attorney Samuel Untermyer today declined to discuss the announcement made by Representative Keller of Minnesota that Untermyer had consented to appear in the impeachment proceedings against Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty.

He stated that his letter to Representative Keller in reply to the latter's request that he interest himself in the Daugherty case, fully outlined his position, which was not rightly interpreted in Keller's Washington announcement, or was not accurately reported.

STRIKE BULLETIN

Some Strategic Considerations

Trade papers give us the following evidence of the rapidly increasing effect of the strike. The Chicago Journal of Commerce for September 7th states: "Because of the traffic jam at Kansas City, railroads are not accepting freight currently for shipment west." "The car shortage is estimated to have hampered production in both Illinois and Indiana to where but 40 per cent of normal is being taken from the mines. Many of the mines are closed because of no cars or rather the inability of the roads to move the coal. Operators declare it is not so much of a car shortage as it is a lack of motive power by the carriers." The current number of Iron Age says: "Steel companies are unable to get sufficient box cars for the movement of products like wire and tin plate, and this shortage promises to be worse. The use of open top cars for coal movement is also curtailing the supply of such cars for steel mills. In respect to railroad equipment, what has been called a car shortage is more truly motive power trouble."

The coal report in the Chicago Journal of Commerce for September 8 says: "The Pocahontas producers in West Virginia report only a small amount of coal going over the scales. East of the scales, they say, is jammed with loads that have been on the railroad sidings for from four to five and six weeks. The car situation there is described as worse in the last two weeks than it has been in the last two months." The August 31 issue of Iron Age states that a sheet iron producer at Youngstown, Ohio, reports that it is shipping four-fifths of its output in bad order cars. One interest in using stock cars occasionally for the shipment of nails. Occasionally refrigerator cars are being employed in shipping tin plate." Pittsburgh reports that it is almost impossible to bring iron into that district on account of railroad congestion. Lack of cars for iron and steel shipments is also reported from St. Louis and Providence, R. I.

The Chicago Journal of Commerce on September 2 stated that "Kentucky is flooded with loaded coal cars. The car situation there is reported so severe that it was said there are 25,000 loads on the L. & N. that cannot be moved." On September 6, it stated in an article on the steel trade, that "the carriers are in dire need of equipment."

Robert M. Medill, fuel distributor of Illinois, said the car supply was developing a severity greater than he anticipated. He said "Everywhere there is a clamor for cars."

Mathey Addy Pig Iron Company's weekly review of the iron trade says: "Iron shipped in June, in some cases, has not yet been delivered—it is rusting on some sidetrack. In the coal and coke fields a supply of empty cars of 30 per cent of what is needed is about the average."

Lumber companies are having greater difficulty getting cars. Car shortage is also hitting live stock shipments.

LOYD GEORGE MAY BE PROMPTED TO PLAY A LONE HAND

COLD RECEPTION IN FRENCH AND ITALIAN SEMI-OFFICIAL CIRCLES

TO GREAT BRITAIN'S APPEALS FOR HELP IN CONSTANTINOPLE CRISIS

Constantinople, Sept. 18.—Britain rushed reinforcements today to resist the threatened onslaught of Mustapha Kemal.

Transports from various parts of the Near East were loaded with British soldiers to reinforce the little band of 19,000 who stemmed the way of the threatened invasion of 400,000 victory maddened Turks.

Great Britain by starting all available troops to the Dardanelles area has acted on her declaration that she will fight rather than submit to the Turkish occupation of Constantinople, and the neutral zone of the Dardanelles.

It was believed here that the cold reception in French and Italian semi-official circles to Great Britain's appeal for help, has prompted Lloyd George to attempt to play a lone hand if necessary.

The British transport Derbyshire has been loaded at Malta with 1000 Gordon Highlanders and 200 special detail troops accompanied with heavy field artillery.

From Gibraltar the first Staffordshire regiment of 1,000 men has been ordered out. The destination of these regiments and many others known to be underway, is without doubt Constantinople and vicinity.

A surprise attack from Kemalists near Chanock, which commands the entrance to the Dardanelles is not altogether unexpected. Meagre forces have been rushed to the entrance and were expected to resist, if necessary, Kemal's army.

Allied representatives here are frankly concerned over the possible eventualities with the Turkish rush toward the city.

The allied forces could make but a feeble resistance against the enormous number of Turks, and grave consequences were feared.

Intelligence agents reported that the Turks appeared to be over awed by the British warning that invasion of the neutral zone would mean (Continued on Page 2)

J. M. RAPELJE, OF NORTHERN PACIFIC, MAKES STATEMENT TO J. P. ANDERSON

The Dispatch gives publicity to this correspondence between J. M. Rapelje of the Northern Pacific railway company, and Supt. J. P. Anderson of Brainerd, setting forth the stand of the railway company.

The first telegram sent from St. Paul by Mr. Rapelje reads:

"At request of Mr. Henning, chairman of the Federated Shop Crafts, meeting was held this afternoon (Sept. 14) between executives of the Northern Pacific, Great Northern, Soo Line and M. & St. L., and Mr. Henning and his chairman, Mr. Henning advised that he had asked for this meeting for the purpose of requesting managements of the railroads above enumerated to consider acceptance of basis of individual settlement as agreed upon in Chicago yesterday (Sept. 13) between National Policy Committee and some individual lines in Eastern territory.

"Representatives of the lines above enumerated made it very clear to Mr. Henning and his representatives that at the present time it was absolutely impossible for us to agree to any settlement on such basis. To do so would be to betray the loyal men who had remained in the service and new men who had entered the service and this they would not do and further stated to Mr. Henning and his committee that he would protect these loyal men at all cost.

"Negotiations were concluded with this understanding. We must continue to build up our force regardless of whether men on strike return or not. We, of course, would be glad to have our former employees return to service to the extent that it is possible for us to find positions for them."

Telegram of Sept. 15

In his telegram of Sept. 15, Mr. Rapelje stated: "Referring to my telegram R-36 yesterday (Sept. 14), our men have been badly advised and I realize a very large number of them did not go on strike and are not now continuing on strike of their own choice. Had Mr. Jewell permitted our men to make individual settlements in July at time of our conferences when a satisfactory understanding was reached or had he given this permission later on the basis offered in New York, August 23rd, settlement could have been made by the Northern Pacific at either date.

"This cannot be done now and negotiations have come to an end as stated in my telegram yesterday (Sept. 14). In view of the unfortunate conditions which our striking employees are now placed and our desire to have as many of the men now on strike as possible can be found for return to service under as good condition as it is possible for us to offer at this time, I am authorized by the President to say that men now on strike who desire to return to the service when their applications are approved as provided in my telegram of yesterday (Sept. 14) may do so with their pension privileges fully restored.

MINNESOTA POTATOES UNSOLD IN CHICAGO

Crookston, Sept. 18.—Word received this week by officers of the development association was to the effect that nearly 300 cars of Minnesota potatoes were standing on tracks in Chicago unsold. More serious even is the price now obtainable in terminal markets, which means 40 to 45 cents a bushel to growers in the Red River valley. It is said that the valley growers are sending field run potatoes to market to compete against the graded potatoes of Idaho, Utah and Colorado. In ungraded shipments the poor stock brings the price down for the best stock. Nothing but good stock is being accepted now, and it seems certain many growers in the valley are going to find a large part if not all of their crop a dead loss.

SOVIET REJECTS U. S. MISSION PLAN

Berlin, Sept. 18.—The Bolshevik government confirmed its refusal to admit an American technical mission to investigate Russia unless a soviet mission is invited to America. Such a step would put Russia on an inferior plane, George Tchitcherin told American Ambassador Houghton.

The soviet minister presented a formal note to Mr. Houghton and also told him verbally that Russia could not permit itself to be investigated without permission to study the United States.

Houghton said he had no further suggestions to offer and the incident is considered closed.

'TOO BUSY TO STOP' SAID TAXI DRIVER

(By United Press.)
St. Paul, Sept. 18.—"Too busy to stop," A. Anderson, taxi driver, left John Fahey lying unconscious in the street after running him down Sunday night.

Passing motorists took Fahey to the St. Joseph's hospital where his injuries were said to be minor. Anderson was held by police on a charge of reckless driving.

Miss Alice McGrath was struck by a machine driven by Van Hoff, River Falls, Wis., while alighting from a bus

FIST FIGHT MARKS DEBATE IN HOUSE

Washington, Sept. 18.—In a clash over the rivers and harbors bill on the floor of the house late Saturday, William Bacon Oliver, representative from Alabama, hit S. Wallace Dempsey, representative from New York, twice in the face.

The combatants were separated by chamber officials, who rushed to the scene of the fight on the democratic side of the chamber and prevented further disorder.

Oliver, however, is said to have challenged Dempsey to "come outside," and settle the dispute.

House members say the clash arose over allotment of time for debate on the New York channel amendment to the river and harbors bill.

'CORONER'S COCKTAILS' KILLS TWO MEN

(By United Press.)
New York, Sept. 18.—Two men died and another was sent to a hospital as another epidemic of poison booze broke out today.

William Williams, 35, a cook, and an unidentified man about 40 years old were victims of the fatal "coroner's cocktails."

At a hospital doctors were fighting to save the life of a third man suddenly stricken after drinking moonshine liquor. The new epidemic is on Manhattan Island where alcoholic deaths this year are reported at 169.

DANIEL KELLEY DIED OF APOPLEXY

(By United Press.)
St. Paul, Sept. 18.—Daniel Kelley, Minnesota pioneer and member of the state board of control, died of apoplexy early Sunday morning.

Mr. Kelley had been in good health up to the time of his death. He had been a resident of St. Paul for nearly seventy years.

New York, Sept. 18.—Two men died and another was sent to a hospital as another epidemic of poison booze broke out today.

William Williams, 35, a cook, and an unidentified man about 40 years old were victims of the fatal "coroner's cocktails."

At a hospital doctors were fighting to save the life of a third man suddenly stricken after drinking moonshine liquor. The new epidemic is on Manhattan Island where alcoholic deaths this year are reported at 169.

BRITISH ARE RUSHING OUT REINFORCEMENTS

military action. It was believed that this reaction of the Turks may prevent Mustapha Kemal from ordering an advance.

Cool Response from France When England Asks Aid

Paris, Sept. 18—France moved today to prevent the threatened clash between British troops and the army of Mustapha Kemal.

It was authoritatively stated that the French government had decided to dispatch Franklin Bouillon to Kemal's Smyrna camp in an effort to induce the Turkish leader not to invade the Dardanelles neutral zone and to forego his reported plan of attacking Constantinople.

Bouillon is France's outstanding Near East authority. It was he who negotiated the Franco-Kemal treaty.

Only invasion by Kemal can draw military action from France, it was stated officially. France may intervene on the side of the British if Kemal actually invades the neutral zone, but otherwise, action by France is considered remote.

England's request for military assistance has met with cool response in France. It was pointed out in semi-official circles that whenever France considered independent action against Germany, England provided an obstacle. England, by taking independent action now, has acted, it was stated, to widen the breach in the British and French Near East policies.

Native Americans Safe in Smyrna
Washington, Sept. 18—All native Americans in Smyrna are safe, although the fourteen naturalized Americans who have been missing since the fire started in the city are still unaccounted for, according to a cable message received by the navy department today from Captain A. J. Hepburn, commanding American destroyers at Smyrna.

Australians Volunteer
Sidney, Wales, Sept. 18—Australia can send a brigade of volunteers to the Dardanelles within a fortnight, Lieutenant General Sir John Monash announced today.

Already between six and seven hundred men in Sidney alone have volunteered in response to the empire's call.

Britain May Go Alone, If None Assist

London, Sept. 18—The British Empire is rushing preparations to defend the Dardanelles unaided if France, Italy and the Balkan states refuse assistance, it was learned following a two hour consultation of Lloyd George and his ministers at Downing street this morning.

Near East Parley Only If Russia Assents

Berlin, Sept. 18—Mustapha Kemal will not sanction a near East peace parley with the allies unless the soviet government gives its consent.

Kemal has dispatched the message to Tchitcherlin, Soviet foreign minister, who is now here, and declares there will be no negotiations without the Moscow approval.

Russia has demanded she be given representation in the proposed Venice peace parley, at which it is hoped a settlement of the Near East problem will be reached.

Britain Concentrating Troops

Britain's concentration of troops in the vicinity of the Dardanelles in order to prevent the threatened invasion of Mustapha Kemal, Turkish nationalist leader, was under way.

Transports bearing British soldiers and artillery were hastened from various parts of the east and Near East.

France, it was semi-officially stated, will not grant England's request for military aid against Kemal. The French government, furthermore, has moved to prevent the clash between Turkish and British forces by sending a representative to Kemal's Smyrna headquarters to attempt to induce him not to invade the neutral zone.

P. M. ZAKARIASEN NAMED

Head of Dairy Committee by Gov. Preus to Cooperate With National Dairy Exhibition for 1922

The Dispatch, through its columns has been strongly advocating the matter of dairy farming for Crow Wing county. Local conditions are such as to make this rural industry more profitable than other farming enterprises. The fact that a dairy-farming community is the most prosperous, is without question.

These facts are now gaining recognition by state officials, as will be seen from the accompanying letter, signed by Governor J. A. O. Preus, and written to P. M. Zakariassen of this city.

Dear Sir: I am convinced that one of the greatest influences of benefit to the agricultural interests of the Northwest is the dairy cow and the allied products of the dairy industry.

For that reason, I have accepted the chairmanship of a committee of public spirited citizens of Minnesota to cooperate with the management of the National Dairy Expositions for 1922, which is to be held at the Minnesota State fair grounds, Oct. 7th to 14th.

We hope to make the work of this committee more effective through the advice and counsel of local committees, and I am taking this opportunity of advising you of your appointment as a member of the local committee for your community.

Your county agent is interested in this proposition as a means of improving farm markets and very likely is even now making plans for representation of his community at the Dairy Exposition by a delegation of his members.

You can help him I am sure by counselling with him as to ways and means by which this delegation can be organized. I am sure whatever you can accomplish in this direction will be helpful to the whole state.

Governor Preus showed excellent judgment in selecting Mr. Zakariassen for this work, since he has demonstrated the truth of the governor's letter in actual dairy farming and will make a splendid man to head the work in this locality.

Obituary

Mrs. Catherine Miller, widow of John Miller, died September 15th at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Peter Remmels, 217 North 9th street.

Catherine Mayers was born in McHenry county, Ill., August 10th, 1845. She was married to John Miller in Chicago on June 18th, 1865, at about the close of the Civil War.

In 1881 the Miller's moved to Minnesota, taking a claim in Crow Wing county in St. Mathias township. There were very few white people in that locality in those days, the pioneer's neighbor being mostly Indians.

They lived on their farm until the children had grown up, then Mr. and Mrs. Miller moved to Brainerd, where Mr. Miller died some 14 years ago.

In the Miller family were thirteen children, thirty-eight grandchildren and three great grandchildren. Of the thirteen children, five are dead, being Frederick, Margaret, Benjamin, Catherine and Martin. The eight children surviving are, John, living in Westby, Mont.; Jacob, of Brainerd; Mrs. W. Pfeiffer of Jamestown, N. D.; Fred of Antelope, Mont.; Mrs. Peter Remmels, of Brainerd; Mrs. Frank Ludwig, International Falls; Mrs. John Pilkev, Wahpeton, N. D.; and Mrs. Dolly Miller of Owatonna, Minn.

The funeral was held Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock from St. Francis Catholic church, Rev. Father James Hogan officiating, and interment made in the St. Mathias cemetery beside her husband.

CARLOAD OF GRAPES

Brainerd Housewives by the Hundreds Will Soon be Making Luscious Grape Jell

First its one thing, then another. Last month Brainerd housewives were "stewing" over their peach preserves. Now its time to worry about the grape season. And still there are men who think that there is no responsibility attached to friend wife's job.

In peach-canning time the Brainerd Grocery Company came to the good wife's rescue with several carloads of fine Elberta peaches, which were of as fine a quality as were ever brought into the city. They were all snapped up like hot cakes nearly as soon as they arrived.

Now A. C. Ebert states that his company is ready to meet the demands which will be made on local grocers for grapes a carload will be in, ready for distribution on Monday.

Grape jelly is in order, and who knows but what a goodly share of the luscious Concord will go into the wine barrel that sits in the far corner of the cellar? But Mr. Ebert says that there will be plenty of grapes to go around for every purpose, provided orders are placed early in the week.

A carload of peaches, the last one of the season, is now on the tracks, for those who have not completed their canning, and housewives are warned that this will be the last opportunity to fill their requirements this season.

IN MUNICIPAL COURT

Chambers Pleads Guilty—Meyers Case, Charging Assault—Ralph Peterson Bound Over

In municipal court this morning, William Chambers, accused of leaving the country without settling a board bill, withdrew his plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty. Judge Warner imposed a fine of $100 or 90 days in jail. Chambers is making an effort to raise the necessary money.

Erick and Carl Meyers of Platte Lake township were arraigned, charged with assault by John A. Thelin, which offense took place on August 31st.

Erick pleaded not guilty and his hearing is set for Thursday morning at ten o'clock, bail demanded being $100.

Carl Meyers, his brother, being only 16 years of age, must be taken before Judge Sanborn in juvenile court.

Ralph Peterson, held on a statutory charge, was bound over to the grand jury Saturday afternoon. No bail in his case has yet been produced.

Mike Bertlich had a hearing Saturday afternoon, also, and asked for an examination, which will be held Friday at one p. m. He is charged with highway robbery in the first degree for impersonating a prohibition agent thus gaining access to the home of Frank Krall in Cuyuna, and appropriating $410.

TIP ON LIQUOR CLEANUP, FRUITLESS

Brainerd police officers were disappointed Saturday in a liquor cleanup which they had planned.

It seems that the police had been warned of some liquor which was being smuggled into the city from St. Paul, and armed with the automobile number, Chief Graft and Patrolman Squires stopped the car, taking the driver, J. F. Wahl into custody.

A search revealed the fact that Wahl had consumed all of the evidence to such a degree that he was hardly in fit condition to appear in court, so was released on $100 bonds, his case continued until Monday afternoon.

The officers feel that they were foiled in their attempt to capture a bootlegger, for a man can hardly be listed in that category when he drinks all of his own "waree".

PILLAGER

Miss Christine Hope has returned to Big Sandy, Montana, after spending the summer at her home here.

Miss Agnes Britton is attending the State Teachers college in Duluth.

The highway maintenance crew of district No. 4 is working southwest of Pillager. The outfit consists of six Pierce Arrow trucks and two Whites, and is engaged in covering the road with the red clay found near here. The work is being done from the Morey farm to the bridge at Pillager, and will require several weeks for its completion.

Mrs. Charles Anderson entertained the Swedish Lutheran Aid last Wednesday.

John Gilson has traded his farm for a furniture store at Sherburn.

False Fortunes

A false feeling of wealth comes with free spending, for a person usually feels richest while engaged in the very act of making himself poorer.

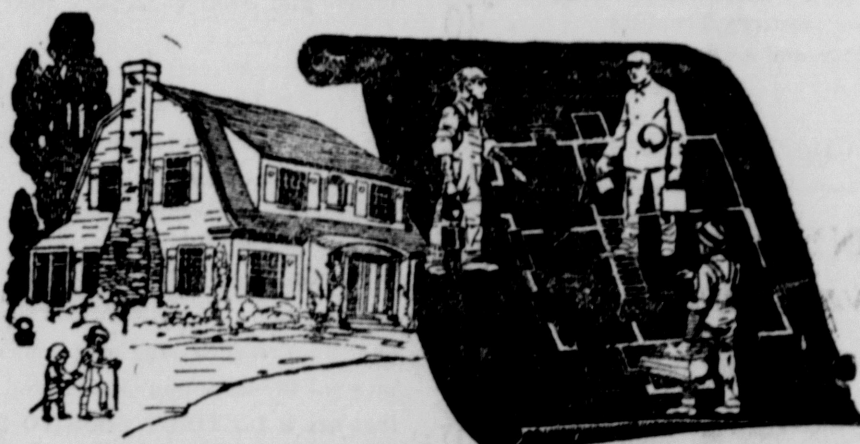

Whenever you are tempted to spend unnecessarily, put that amount into an interest-bearing account here.

Then a feeling of wealth will eventually be justified by the substantial sum to your credit.

PLANS FOR EVERY BUILDING NEED

This is good building weather, and it won't last so many months. There is every reason why the prospective builder should take advantage not only of the good weather but of favorable conditions in the building industry. Supplies and labor are plentiful and can be purchased at as low a figure as in years to come.

Right now is the time to go over the plans we have on file here and select a home suited to your needs. You will find something, we are sure, that will be what you want and what you can afford to erect.

No matter what the building project may be, right now is the opportune time to proceed. Be it house, barn, granary, hog house, corn crib or shed we have plans here drawn that suggest the latest conveniences in the most approved styles of building.

SKIN DISEASE

Any skin disease such as acne, eczema, psoriasis, etc., is very unpleasant, but if the organs of elimination are working properly there will be no skin disease. If there is subluxation (displacement) of the vertebrae (small bones of the spine), causing nerve pressure and preventing the vital force from flowing freely to the kidneys, the latter will not function properly and the excretion will be thrown off by the pores of the skin, causing eczema and similar disorders. TRY CHIROPRACTIC VERTEBRAL ADJUSTMENTS for skin trouble and keep your eliminatory organs "up to par."

P. M. ZAKARIASEN NAMED

Head of Dairy Committee by Gov. Preus to Cooperate With National Dairy Exhibition for 1922

The Dispatch, through its columns has been strongly advocating the matter of dairy farming for Crow Wing county. Local conditions are such as to make this rural industry more profitable than other farming enterprises. The fact that a dairy-farming community is the most prosperous, is without question.

These facts are now gaining recognition by state officials, as will be seen from the accompanying letter, signed by Governor J. A. O. Preus, and written to P. M. Zakariasen of this city.

Dear Sir: I am convinced that one of the greatest influences of benefit to the agricultural interests of the Northwest is the dairy cow and the allied products of the dairy industry.

For that reason, I have accepted the chairmanship of a committee of public spirited citizens of Minnesota to cooperate with the management of the National Dairy Expositions for 1922, which is to be held at the Minnesota State fair grounds, Oct. 7th to 14th.

We hope to make the work of this committee more effective through the advice and counsel of local committees, and I am taking this opportunity of advising you of your appointment as a member of the local committee for your community.

Your county agent is interested in this proposition as a means of improving farm markets and very likely is even now making plans for representation of his community at the Dairy Exposition by a delegation of his members.

You can help him I am sure by counseling with him as to ways and means by which this delegation can be organized. I am sure whatever you can accomplish in this direction will be helpful to the whole state.

Governor Preus showed excellent judgment in selecting Mr. Zakariasen for this work, since he has demonstrated the truth of the governor's letter in actual dairy farming and will make a splendid man to head the work in this locality.

Obituary

Mrs. Catherine Miller, widow of John Miller, died September 15th at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Peter Remmels, 217 North 9th street.

Catherine Mayers was born in McHenry county, Ill., August 10th, 1845. She was married to John Miller in Chicago on June 18th, 1865, at about the close of the Civil War.

In 1881, the Miller's moved to Minnesota, taking a claim in Crow Wing county in St. Mathias township. There were very few white people in that locality in those days, the pioneer's neighbor being mostly Indians.

They lived on their farm until the children had grown up, then Mr. and Mrs. Miller moved to Brainerd, where Mr. Miller died some 14 years ago.

In the Miller family were thirteen children, thirty-eight grandchildren and three great grandchildren. Of the thirteen children, five are dead, being Frederick, Margaret, Benjamin, Catherine and Martin. The eight children surviving are, John, living in Westby, Mont.; Jacob, of Brainerd; Mrs. W. Pfeiffer of Jamestown, N. D.; Fred of Antelope, Mont.; Mrs. Peter Remmels, of Brainerd; Mrs. Frank Ludwig, International Falls; Mrs. John Pilkev, Wahpeton, N. D.; and Mrs. Dolly Miller of Owatonna, Minn.

The funeral was held Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock from St. Francis Catholic church, Rev. Father James Hogan officiating, and interment made in the St. Mathias cemetery beside her husband.

CARLOAD OF GRAPES

Brainerd Housewives by the Hundreds Will Soon be Making Luscious Grape Jelly

First its one thing, then another. Last month Brainerd housewives were "stewing" over their peach preserves. Now its time to worry about the grape season. And still there are men who think that there is no responsibility attached to friend wife's job.

In peach-canning time the Brainerd Grocery Company came to the good wife's rescue with several carloads of fine Elberta peaches, which were of as fine a quality as were ever brought into the city. They were all snapped up like hot cakes nearly as soon as they arrived.

Now A. C. Ebert states that his company is ready to meet the demands which will be made on local grocers for grapes a carload will be in, ready for distribution on Monday.

Grape jelly is in order, and who knows but what a goodly share of the luscious Concord will go into the wine barrel that sits in the far corner of the cellar? But Mr. Ebert says that there will be plenty of grapes to go around for every purpose, provided orders are placed early in the week.

A carload of peaches, the last one of the season, is now on the tracks, for those who have not completed their canning, and housewives are warned that this will be the last opportunity to fill their requirements this season.

IN MUNICIPAL COURT

Chambers Pleads Guilty—Meyers Case, Charging Assault—Ralph Peterson Bound Over

In municipal court this morning, William Chambers, accused of leaving the country without settling a board bill, withdrew his plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty. Judge Warner imposed a fine of $100 or 90 days in jail. Chambers is making an effort to raise the necessary money.

Erick and Carl Meyers of Platte Lake township were arraigned, charged with assault by John A. Thelin, which offense took place on August 31st.

Erick pleaded not guilty and his hearing is set for Thursday morning at ten o'clock, bail demanded being $100.

Carl Meyers, his brother, being only 16 years of age, must be taken before Judge Sanborn in juvenile court.

Ralph Peterson, held on a statutory charge, was bound over to the grand jury Saturday afternoon. No bail in his case has yet been produced.

Mike Bertlich had a hearing Saturday afternoon, also, and asked for an examination, which will be held Friday at one p. m. He is charged with highway robbery in the first degree for impersonating a prohibition agent thus gaining access to the home of Frank Krall in Cuyuna, and appropriating $410.

TIP ON LIQUOR CLEANUP, FRUITLESS

Brainerd police officers were disappointed Saturday in a liquor cleanup which they had planned.

THE BONUS BILL

It is now almost four years since the armistice was signed and the world war brought to an end. During those four years much has been said for and against paying adjusted compensation to American boys, who were compelled by their country to leave their tasks for which, owing to the strong demand for labor resulting from the war, they were receiving a high rate of compensation to take their places in the various branches of the army and navy.

And now, after much pressure has been brought to bear upon congress, both houses have passed such a bill, which has been sent to the president for his signature. Those close to the chief executive say that he will veto the measure, and if he does he will be acting in accordance with his previously expressed intention. President Harding said when the bill was up for consideration in the house and senate that, unless it carried within it a means of raising the money necessary to pay the compensation, he would be compelled to veto it.

If the bill is returned to congress by presidential veto, congress may be able to muster sufficient votes to pass it over the veto, and the president will be required to shoulder the responsibility for seeking to prevent the measure from becoming a law.

But, even though one may enthusiastically favor the adjusted compensation measure and feel that the men who served with the forces of the United States will not be fairly treated until the compensation is paid, nevertheless there is much to be said for the president's attitude, and his veto of the bill will prove his consistency, and his refusal to be rushed into a position by the pressure of legislators.

The president's position was fully known to congress before the bill was pushed through the house and the senate, and every opportunity was given congressmen and senators to make the measure conform to the wish of the chief executive who is responsible in a definite sense for the execution of those measures which congress puts upon the statute books. And the president's insistence that the bill include some method for paying the large amount voted to ex-soldiers by its provisions is prompted by business sagacity. Bills against the treasury of the United States, however thoughts of the wealth of the nation may arise in the mind, or the enormous profits of the profiteers may be remembered, cannot be paid unless provision is made for their payment.

Congressmen know this full well, and while it would be uncharitable to charge that they passed the measure with the assurance and expectation of the veto, so that they themselves would be relieved of criticism from ex-soldiers who are also voters, it is quite evident that they desired to gain the approval of those who decided the bill by passing it, and of others who were opposed to the measure by refusing a means of payment, thereby putting the matter up to the nation's business head who is responsible to the people for the functioning of the departments of the government and who had already expressed his determination to veto a measure which did not arrange to meet the payments voted from the treasury by the provisions of the bill.

We say again that President Harding's position is logical, consistent and sensible, and it will be for members of congress, who failed to find a means of paying the fiddler after calling for the tune, to explain their failure to the ex-soldiers, and their friends who believe in the justice of their claims.

THE WORLD WAR'S AFTERMATH

The nations of Europe in conference at Versailles attempted to adjust boundaries in such a way that the conquered would suffer territorial reduction; nations adjacent to conquered territories, who had been friendly to the allies, rewarded; while they themselves sought to so dispose of the fruits of victory as to gain for themselves a position of dominance of the affairs of Europe. Turkey having thrown her forces to the Central Empire, to suffer defeat in the breakdown of the resistance of the allies of Germany, was one of those nations from which, by the resultant treaty, territory was taken to be given to the friends of the allied nations. But now, four years after the termination of hostilities, Turkey refuses to stay put, and in conflict with the Greeks has proved the strength of her forces, the enthusiasm of her subjects in the cause, and that her leadership commands the respect of her citizens.

In the recent events of this hot bed of racial prejudice it has been demonstrated once more that the dictations of force only stand until the worm turns. Force is only effective so long as it predominates but as soon as the conquered have organized their forces they may be in turn the conquerors. And Turkey, conquered but a few years ago and subject to the determination of her conquerors, is now in a position where she can offer terms which if accepted will restore much of her territory together with her self respect, but which, if rejected, may lead to another war whose spread can no more be determined today than could the extent of the world war be measured when the first shot was fired.

This trouble has originated in Europe's storm center and its consequences cannot be determined. If the three strong powers, England, France and Italy, will make such concessions as will save the face of Turkey there is every reason to hope that the peace of the world will be preserved; but if their councillors seek to crush the aspirations, of not only those who are at present engaged in the conflict but of the Mohammedan people, a conflict which will spread to those far distant points of Mohammedan influence may result. If only the nations can bury jealousies, give Turkey honorable treatment, preserve the freedom of the Dardenelles and Constantinople, not for selfish advantage but for the world's best interests, war may be avoided.

The present situation teaches once more this important lesson: Force does not ultimately settle vexed questions between nations. And it suggests that some association of nations must be perfected who in conference will give heed to the claims of peoples, honestly and equitably pass upon these, and give their united strength to seeing that fair play prevails among the nations. What is wanted is an umpire with authority to order unruly players from the field.

LAUDS ROTARIANS

ONE of the greatest organizations in America today is the Rotarians. They believe in service, in trying to benefit conditions not only locally but throughout the world. They have in a great measure eradicated from their membership one of the greatest obstructions to human advancement and happiness, namely selfishness. A local society of this great organization, at Warren, Arkansas, took a quarter of page in their home paper to advise the boys of that community to go to school, not to neglect their schooling, pointing out the handicaps incidental to a lack of education. They say to the boys: "Do not throw away the big chance of developing yourselves for the sake of a few dollars that may be earned now but remember that education is the golden key that unlocks the door of opportunity. Go back to school, boy, and stay there hard at work until your education is complete. America is a land of opportunity. Any boy with an education can climb to the place where his ambition will lead him. Until he himself is satisfied with his achievements he need not stop." This is sound advice and is especially applicable at this season of the year when so many hesitate about resuming their school work desiring to garner in what ready money they can before going back to school. The result is that they get behind in their studies and discouragement follows, and we soon see the lads giving up school entirely. Stick boys, stick and secure an education no matter what the cost.—Mapleton Enterprise.

AFTER all Mrs. Olesen is Senator Kellogg's best publicity agent. In her muddle of facts about his record she spurs up several hundred state papers in behalf of accuracy to correct her misstatements and thus tell the people of Minnesota what an able and faithful senator they have in Frank Kellogg. PUBLIC GETS TIRED OF LABOR DISPUTES

THIRD PARTY INNOCENT VICTIMS, AROUSED BY BURDEN, WANTS REMEDY

New York, Sept. 16.—At last a powerful voice has been raised in behalf of the greatest sufferer from labor disputes—the public. The voice is that of Governor Nathan Miller of New York, who in his speech at the state fair in Syracuse declared his intention to fight both capital and labor should there be further danger of a food famine as a result of the recent strikes. He proposes to make it a penal offense to endanger movement of commodities necessary for the public health and well being.

The governor seems to have reached the same conclusion that many leading economists have reached, that the strike as now used is an economic crime for which both capital and labor are responsible.

The way out is simple. Politicians have hesitated to adopt it. If, perchance, Governor Miller should prove to be a statesman in office, and if he really does what he says he will do, the example will spread like wildfire. People in all parts of the country are patiently waiting for the appearance of a statesman with nerve enough to stand up for the innocent third party in the labor disputes. In all settlements it is always capital and labor that get the prizes. The public pays in cash after the strike and suffering during the strike.

Think of the $200,000,000 of fruit that rotted on the farms of the west this autumn when the east was hungry for it. Think of the pneumonia and rheumatism that partly heated homes everywhere will bring on this winter.

There is no danger of any uprising in this country of the working men, but there is danger of a moral uprising of the people against both labor and capital. It behooves both of them to be careful.

EXPLORER LEAVES TO HUNT "MISSING LINK"

San Francisco, Sept. 14.—Captain Edward A. Salisbury, scientist and explorer, and party left San Francisco for the Malay peninsula, where they will search for what has been termed in science "the missing link." Captain Salisbury said rumors had come from time to time of a tribe in the jungles of the Malay archipelago the members of which had short, vestigial tails.

Note—The Dispatch believes any butcher shop can supply all the missing links needed.

--Financial Resources--

THE FINANCIAL RESOURCES OF A COMMUNITY ARE THE BAROMETER OF ITS PROSPERITY.

Add to these resources and you quicken its advancement. Detract and you proportionately obstruct its progress.

This should evidence to all of us our individual responsibility toward our home town and its people. These people are your friends and neighbors. YOUR INTERESTS ARE KINDRED. Thus you should take no personal action in any community matter without taking into consideration just how it will affect all those living here.

You can safely bet, folks, that every Dollar you remove from the commercial and industrial life of Brainerd deprives just that much employment and vocation from someone who needs it. And when you remove employment and vocation, you will remove from our midst those individuals who are dependent upon it for the sustenance of their homes and families. THIS IS AN ABSOLUTE IRREFUTABLE FACT.

You may think we have enlarged upon this matter, folks, when we refer to your INDIVIDUAL ACTS as being so highly important to the welfare of Brainerd. To the contrary it should make plain the paths that are opened to all of us in extending the co-operation we owe this wonderful community.

To begin with when you need Merchandise or Service—BUY IT
IN BRAINERD. This simple procedure keeps your money at home, banks it here, pays the obligations of our people and thus finds itself on its way back into the channels of local commerce and trade—and even back into your own pocketbook from whence it came.

Stop and think a moment, friends, of the transactions involved in a procedure of this kind. THINK OF THE EMPLOYMENT MADE POSSIBLE in the handling of these Dollars and the business transactions ensuing as a result of keeping them among ourselves.

In contrast, picture in your minds the result of spending or sending these Dollars away from our city. By so doing you have side-tracked in a single action, a substantial portion of our commercial industry and transferred to some distant community assets that are a DISTINCT LOSS TO BRAINERD AND ITS PEOPLE.

We claim the keeping of our money at home, friends, is the first step in the building of a "real city." And from the standpoint of yourself—should be the easiest. To begin with, MERCHANDISE
AND SERVICE IS HERE IN ABUNDANCE. There is not a business man in Brainerd today but who is ready to serve you to your utmost satisfaction both in quantity, quality and price.

BEFORE YOU TURN THIS PAGE we want you to glance through the list appended herewith and realize this is so. And they are only part of the entire number who are ready, not only to serve you, but also our community—Brainerd. Think it over.

THE BONT'S BILL

It is now almost four years since the armistice was signed and the world war brought to an end. During those four years much has been said for and against paying adjusted compensation to American boys, who were compelled by their country to leave their tasks for which, owing to the strong demand for labor resulting from the war, they were receiving a high rate of compensation to take their places in the various branches of the army and navy.

And now, after much pressure has been brought to bear upon congress, both houses have passed such a bill, which has been sent to the president for his signature. Those close to the chief executive say that he will veto the measure, and if he does he will be acting in accordance with his previously expressed intention. President Harding said when the bill was up for consideration in the house and senate that, unless it carried within it a means of raising the money necessary to pay the compensation, he would be compelled to veto it.

If the bill is returned to congress by presidential veto, congress may be able to muster sufficient votes to pass it over the veto, and the president will be required to shoulder the responsibility for seeking to prevent the measure from becoming a law.

But, even though one may enthusiastically favor the adjusted compensation measure and feel that the men who served with the forces of the United States will not be fairly treated until the compensation is paid, nevertheless there is much to be said for the president's attitude, and his veto of the bill will prove his consistency, and his refusal to be rushed into a position by the pressure of legislators.

The president's position was fully known to congress before the bill was pushed through the house and the senate, and every opportunity was given congressmen and senators to make the measure conform to the wish of the chief executive who is responsible in a definite sense for the execution of those measures which congress puts upon the statute books. And the president's insistence that the bill include some method for paying the large amount voted to ex-soldiers by its provisions is prompted by business sagacity. Bills against the treasury of the United States, however thoughtful of the wealth of the nation may arise in the mind, or the enormous profits of the profiteers may be remembered, cannot be paid unless provision is made for their payment.

Congressmen know this full well, and while it would be uncharitable to charge that they passed the measure with the assurance and expectation of the veto, so that they themselves would be relieved of criticism from ex-soldiers who are also voters, it is quite evident that they desired to gain the approval of those who desired the bill by passing it, and of others who were opposed to the measure by refusing a means of payment, thereby putting the matter up to the nation's business head who is responsible to the people for the functioning of the departments of the government and who had already expressed his determination to veto a measure which did not arrange to meet the payments voted from the treasury by the provisions of the bill.

We say again that President Harding's position is logical, consistent and sensible, and it will be for members of congress, who failed to find a means of paying the fiddler after calling for the tune, to explain their failure to the ex-soldiers, and their friends who believe in the justice of their claims.

THE WORLD WAR'S AFTERMATH

THE nations of Europe in conference at Versailles attempted to adjust boundaries in such a way that the conquered would suffer territorial reduction; nations adjacent to conquered territories, who had been friendly to the allies, rewarded; while they themselves sought to so dispose of the fruits of victory as to gain for themselves a position of dominance of the affairs of Europe. Turkey having thrown her forces to the Central Empire, to suffer defeat in the breakdown of the resistance of the allies of Germany, was one of those nations from which, by the resultant treaty, territory was taken to be given to the friends of the allied nations. But now, four years after the termination of hostilities, Turkey refuses to stay put, and in conflict with the Greeks has proved the strength of her forces, the enthusiasm of her subjects in the cause, and that her leadership commands the respect of her citizens.

In the recent events of this hot bed of racial prejudice it has been demonstrated once more that the dictations of force only stand until the worm turns. Force is only effective so long as it predominates but as soon as the conquered have organized their forces they may be in turn the conquerors. And Turkey, conquered but a few years ago and subject to the determination of her conquerors, is now in a position where she can offer terms which if accepted will restore much of her territory together with her self respect, but which, if rejected, may lead to another war whose spread can no more be determined today than could the extent of the world war be measured when the first shot was fired.

This trouble has originated in Europe's storm center and its consequences cannot be determined. If the three strong powers, England, France and Italy, will make such concessions as will save the face of Turkey there is every reason to hope that the peace of the world will be preserved; but if their councillors seek to crush the aspirations, of not only those who are at present engaged in the conflict but of the Mohammedan people, a conflict which will spread to those far distant points of Mohammedan influence may result. If only the nations can bury jealousies, give Turkey honorable treatment, preserve the freedom of the Dardanelles and Constantinople, not for selfish advantage but for the world's best interests, war may be avoided.

The present situation teaches once more this important lesson: Force does not ultimately settle vexed questions between nations. And it suggests that some association of nations must be perfected who in conference will give heed to the claims of peoples, honestly and equitably pass upon these, and give their united strength to seeing that fair play prevails among the nations. What is wanted is an empire with authority to order unruly players from the field.

LAUDS ROTARIANS

ONE of the greatest organizations in America today is the Rotarians. They believe in service, in trying to benefit conditions not only locally but throughout the world. They have in a great measure eradicated from their membership one of the greatest obstructions to human advancement and happiness, namely selfishness. A local society of this great organization, at Warren, Arkansas, took a quarter of page in their home paper to advise the boys of that community to go to school, not to neglect their schooling, pointing out the handicaps incidental to a lack of education. They say to the boys: "Do not throw away the big chance of developing yourselves for the sake of a few dollars that may be earned now but remember that education is the golden key that unlocks the door of opportunity. Go back to school, boy, and stay there hard at work until your education is complete. America is a land of opportunity. Any boy with an education can climb to

PUBLIC GETS TIRED OF LABOR DISPUTES

THIRD PARTY INNOCENT VICTIMS, AROUSED BY BURDEN, WANTS REMEDY

New York, Sept. 16.—At last a powerful voice has been raised in behalf of the greatest sufferer from labor disputes—the public. The voice is that of Governor Nathan Miller of New York, who in his speech at the state fair in Syracuse declared his intention to fight both capital and labor should there be further danger of a food famine as a result of the recent strikes. He proposes to make it a penal offense to endanger movement of commodities necessary for the public health and well being.

The governor seems to have reached the same conclusion that many leading economists have reached, that the strike as now used is an economic crime for which both capital and labor are responsible.

The way out is simple. Politicians have hesitated to adopt it. If, perchance, Governor Miller should prove to be a statesman in office, and if he really does what he says he will do, the example will spread like wildfire. People in all parts of the country are patiently waiting for the appearance of a statesman with nerve enough to stand up for the innocent third party in the labor disputes. In all settlements it is always capital and labor that get the prizes. The public pays in cash after the strike and suffering during the strike.

Think of the $200,000,000 of fruit that rotted on the farms of the west this autumn when the east was hungry for it. Think of the pneumonia and rheumatism that partly heated homes everywhere will bring on this winter.

There is no danger of any uprising in this country of the working men, but there is danger of a moral uprising of the people against both labor and capital. It behooves both of them to be careful.

EXPLORER LEAVES TO HUNT "MISSING LINK"

San Francisco, Sept. 14.—Captain Edward A. Salisbury, scientist and explorer, and party left San Francisco for the Malay peninsula, where they will search for what has been termed in science "the missing link." Captain Salisbury said rumors had come from time to time of a tribe in the jungles of the Malay archipelago the members of which had short, vestigial tails.

Note—The Dispatch believes any butcher shop can supply all the missing links needed.

--Financial Resources--

THE FINANCIAL RESOURCES OF A COMMUNITY ARE THE BAROMETER OF ITS PROSPERITY.

Add to these resources and you quicken its advancement. Detract and you proportionately obstruct its progress.

This should evidence to all of us our individual responsibility toward our home town and its people. These people are your friends and neighbors. YOUR INTERESTS ARE KINDRED. Thus you should take no personal action in any community matter without taking into consideration just how it will affect all those living here.

You can safely bet, folks, that every Dollar you remove from the commercial and industrial life of Brainerd deprives just that much employment and vocation from someone who needs it. And when you remove employment and vocation, you will remove from our midst those individuals who are dependent upon it for the sustenance of their homes and families. THIS IS AN ABSOLUTE IRREFUTABLE FACT.

You may think we have enlarged upon this matter, folks, when we refer to your INDIVIDUAL ACTS as being so highly important to the welfare of Brainerd. To the contrary it should make plain the paths that are opened to all of us in extending the co-operation we owe this wonderful community.

To begin with when you need Merchandise or Service—BUY IT
IN BRAINERD. This simple procedure keeps your money at home, banks it here, pays the obligations of our people and thus finds itself on its way back into the channels of local commerce and trade—and even back into your own pocketbook from whence it came.

Stop and think a moment, friends, of the transactions involved in a procedure of this kind. THINK OF THE EMPLOYMENT
MADE POSSIBLE in the handling of these Dollars and the business transactions ensuing as a result of keeping them among ourselves.

In contrast, picture in your minds the result of spending or sending these Dollars away from our city. By so doing you have side-tracked in a single action, a substantial portion of our commercial industry and transferred to some distant community assets that are a DISTINCT LOSS TO BRAINERD AND ITS PEOPLE.

We claim the keeping of our money at home, friends, is the first step in the building of a "real city." And from the standpoint of yourself—should be the easiest. To begin with, MERCHANDISE
AND SERVICE IS HERE IN ABUNDANCE. There is not a business man in Brainerd today but who is ready to serve you to your utmost satisfaction both in quantity, quality and price.

BEFORE YOU TURN THIS PAGE we want you to glance through the list appended herewith and realize this is so. And they are only part of the entire number who are ready, not only to serve you, but also our community—Brainerd. Think it over.

BRAINERD WALKS OFF WITH HONORS

This Was Especially True in Poultry Department, Arthur Liners Being Prize Winner

RANGE DAY FAIR ATTENDANCE

Pequot Won 2 to 1 from Crosby—Exhibits and Attractions at Fair Surpass Past Years

Brainerd walked off with some of the high honors at the Crow Wing county fair, held in Pequot last week. Especially is this true in the poultry department.

Arthur Liners, 711 South 19th street, brought home most of the prizes with his White Leghorn chickens. He took first prize and third on white single-combed cockerels, first and second prizes on white single-combed pullets, second prize on pens, and fourth prize on four best pullets.

G. T. Lind, of Northeast Brainerd, took first prize on the best pen of white single-combed leghorns.

"Range Day", Saturday at the fair, was well attended. The ball game between Crosby and Pequot was exceptionally good, and hard fought, too, if one may judge by the score of 2 to 1 in favor of Pequot. All scores were made in the last inning. Battery for Pequot was Tracy and Rlesness, for Crosby, Lewis and Ellingson. The work of the Pequot pitcher is especially commendable. Billy Benda and E. K. Emerson of Brainerd played with the Crosby team. Umpires were Bouma and Moulster.

Exhibits and attractions at the fair far surpassed those of previous years, and the directors feel that they are well repaid for the time and money spent in the interest taken and the large attendance.

HENRY SWELLAND DIED

Passed Away in Nokay Lake Township, Leaves Wife and Five Children

Henry Swelland died Monday morning at his mother's farm home in Nokay Lake township.

He took sick a year ago at which time he underwent two serious operations and never fully recovered and complications set in from time to time which resulted in his death. He leaves a wife and five children and mother and three sisters and two brothers. The sisters are Mrs. P. J. Johnson, Mrs. Jens Jensen and Thelma Swelland all of Nokay Lake and the brothers are Lars and Oliver. The funeral will be announced in tomorrow's paper.

He was a member of the Norwegian-Danish Lutheran church and belonged to the Modern Woodmen of America lodge of Brainerd.

"BRAINERD'S HALF CENTURY"

Work on Compiling Book by Ingolf Dillan is Rapidly Nearing Completion

Work on "Brainerd's Half Century", the history of this city in word and picture, is fast drawing to a close. Ingolf Dillan, its chronicler, will leave within the next ten days for the University of Minnesota, where he is taking a teaching assistantship and graduate work in the department of political science.

He says that it is not yet too late to bring in pictures of old scenes of Brainerd or to turn in bits of historical data or biographical notes of old settlers, but he requests that they be brought to 214 South 7th street as soon as possible.

Already nearly one hundred views of old and new Brainerd, including many of the successful homecoming celebration, are included. There will be an ex-service men's section, the only record of its kind, for Crow Wing county, ever published.

Sketches of the organization and history of every leading business house, of every church, and of the principal civic and secret organizations are being included.

The book will contain about 100 pages, nearly one hundred illustrations, will be printed on the best of book paper, and well bound.

RESOLUTION

Be It Resolved by the City Council of the City of Brainerd:

That the bid of the Drake-Ballard Company for $27,650.00 City of Brainerd Re-paving Certificates of Indebtedness maturing as per official advertisement, for which they bid par and accrued interest, be accepted.

Adopted September 11th, 1922.

MAY START NIGHT SCHOOL

Due to Large Number of Inquiries Brainerd Commercial College May Add This Department Soon

In an interview with J. F. Goossen, principal of the Brainerd Commercial College, the unique position of the commercial school in regard to the business life of the community was brought up. Mr. Goossen says that the average person's conception of a business college is that it manufactures typists, stenographers and bookkeepers. While it is true that all business training schools teach the subjects necessary to these professions that is not their primary purpose, if they are properly managed.

No one thinks it unreasonable to obey the compulsory education law of this state but that law does not guarantee the parent nor the student that he will be fit for his life's work after he finishes the required courses. All that the public schools can do for their pupils is to develop the faculties and talents that they may possess. The commercial school then takes that pupil and teaches him subjects that develop him along special lines in an effort to make him self-supporting. While the public school is building the future voter of this country, the commercial school is no less surely developing the future business man of the community. Just as the one does not turn out the finished citizen so the other does not make the banker, merchant or professional man, but it surely does give him the training that with the proper application on his part will give him a wonderful advantage over the young man that has not had this training.

As the public realizes more and more that business principles are a vital part of the education of each of us the position of the commercial school becomes more secure.

"Even the U. S. government," says Mr. Goossen, "is recognizing the necessity of having good training centers for office help all over the country. We are in receipt of letters every few days from the U. S. civil service commission asking for aid in filling positions in the different departments of the government. The demand so far exceeds the supply at this time that more of the positions have recently been opened to women in the hope that they may be filled speedily."

Schools are urged to train applicants for these places. The Brainerd Commercial College is offering such a course during the coming term.

Due to the unusual number of inquiries received in regard to a night school for the coming winter, he says that a mass meeting will be held in the assembly room of the college in the near future to which all the people interested in night school work will be invited. An arrangement will be worked out whereby students will be handled in groups of ten so as to insure each one plenty of individual attention. Only the essential subjects in each course will be taught so that no time will be wasted.

MINNESOTA FARM FACTS AND FIGURES

As Presented in "The Farmer's" Special 125 Page Booklet Giving Valuable Facts

DATA ON CROW WING COUNTY

Value of Farm Property in County Set at $10,939,410; Picture of So. 6th St., Brainerd, Shown

The Webb Publishing Company, of St. Paul, publishers of "The Farmer" a weekly farm journal, has just issued a large 125 page booklet, entitled "Minnesota Farm Facts and Figures", which it is placing with all of its subscribers, and sending to farmers who are planning on locating in this state.

This booklet contains a very comprehensive survey of farm data in each section of the state. Each county is given a page write-up, showing productions, crop, dairy and livestock statistics, and an article on the towns and cities of the county, with a map of the county furnished by C. M. Babcock, state highway commissioner. Scattered throughout the book are pages of photographs depicting town and rural scenes in every part of the state.

Crow Wing county is given page 39, and the following data may be of interest to our citizens: The population of the county is given as 24,566, of which 13,091 are rural and 11,475 urban. The value of farm property in this county is set at $10,939,410. A picture of south 6th street, Brainerd, holds its space on a page of scenes of near-by towns.

The book is prefaced with an article by W. C. Coffey, the new dean of the State College of Agriculture, entitled, "What I Think of Minnesota", in which he gives his impressions of the state and its people, as a newcomer in the commonwealth. Dean Coffey brings out the fact that residents of other states do not comprehend the size and number of diversified industries of which this state boasts.

The interest taken by business men in agricultural problems is manifest, and impresses Mr. Coffey greatly. To him, this indicates a closer union and better feeling between farmers and merchants, a condition to be desired if any commonwealth is to progress.

Following Dean Coffey's article are several pages devoted to dairy and creamery information and statistics, next the extent of Minnesota's highway system, then the states distribution of wealth and following that the page write-ups of each county mentioned above.

This booklet is invaluable from the standpoint of state information and would make an excellent piece of literature for prospective homeseekers in this state.

BUY POTATOES, HELP THE FARMERS

The Department of Agriculture has estimated the potato crop this year at 440,000,000 bushels, the greatest crop, with one exception only, ever produced in the United States.

The most unfavorable market conditions that ever menaced a potato crop in America confronts the producers this year. In many places farmers having excellent quality potatoes can not bear the expense of harvesting their crops, so small is the income. In most sections the crop is worth less than the cost of production.

Many civic organizations have started a campaign to "Buy a Bag of Potatoes" or "Buy Your Winter's Supply of Potatoes Now" and it is planned to carry the movement to every state producing potatoes. As potatoes are a necessity in every home, and as one of America's greatest industries is on the verge of bankruptcy, the Brainerd Rotary Club requests the citizens of Crow Wing county to bear in mind how serious the situation is and wherever possible help create a market now by buying a bag at once or their supply for the winter. In this one respect the producers need the help of everybody and it requires nothing more than giving this matter one's attention now.

HOMER
PIPELESS FURNACE

Built Better Because Built With a Creator's Pride

The true reason for the pronounced supremacy of the HOMER in the pipeless furnace field is more than a matter of good materials and skilled workmanship.

Into the Homer goes the careful painstaking workmanship, the constant striving for perfection of a creator working to make his dream become a practical reality.

Of what practical benefit is this to the Homer buyer? Just this: The hidden parts of the Homer are as honestly and carefully fashioned as the parts which are seen. The good apples are not all on top of the barrel. You will find that your fuel bill will be 30 to 50% less if you use a Homer. May we send our furnace man over and explain our proposition? BRAINERD WALKS OFF WITH HONORS

This Was Especially True in Poultry Department, Arthur Liners Being Prize Winner

RANGE DAY FAIR ATTENDANCE

Pequot Won 2 to 1 from Crosby—Exhibits and Attractions at Fair Surpass Past Years

Brainerd walked off with some of the high honors at the Crow Wing county fair, held in Pequot last week. Especially is this true in the poultry department.

Arthur Liners, 711 South 19th street, brought home most of the prizes with his White Leghorn chickens. He took first prize and third on white single-combed cockerels, first and second prizes on white single-combed pullets, second prize on pens, and fourth prize on four best pullets.

G. T. Lind, of Northeast Brainerd, took first prize on the best pen of white single-combed leghorns.

"Range Day", Saturday at the fair, was well attended. The ball game between Crosby and Pequot was exceptionally good, and hard fought, too, if one may judge by the score of 2 to 1 in favor of Pequot. All scores were made in the last inning. Battery for Pequot was Tracy and Rlesness, for Crosby, Lewis and Ellingson. The work of the Pequot pitcher is especially commendable. Billy Benda and E. K. Emerson of Brainerd played with the Crosby team. Umpires were Bouma and Moulster.

Exhibits and attractions at the fair far surpassed those of previous years, and the directors feel that they are well repaid for the time and money spent in the interest taken and the large attendance.

HENRY SWELLAND DIED

Passed Away in Nokay Lake Township, Leaves Wife and Five Children

Henry Swelland died Monday morning at his mother's farm home in Nokay Lake township.

He took sick a year ago at which time he underwent two serious operations and never fully recovered and complications set in from time to time which resulted in his death. He leaves a wife and five children and mother and three sisters and two brothers. The sisters are Mrs. P. J. Johnson, Mrs. Jens Jensen and Thelma Swelland all of Nokay Lake and the brothers are Lars and Oliver. The funeral will be announced in tomorrow's paper.

He was a member of the Norwegian-Danish Lutheran church and belonged to the Modern Woodmen of America lodge of Brainerd.

"BRAINERD'S HALF CENTURY"

Work on Compiling Book by Ingolf Dillan is Rapidly Nearing Completion

Work on "Brainerd's Half Century", the history of this city in word and picture, is fast drawing to a close. Ingolf Dillan, its chronicler, will leave within the next ten days for the University of Minnesota, where he is taking a teaching assistantship and graduate work in the department of political science.

He says that it is not yet too late to bring in pictures of old scenes of Brainerd or to turn in bits of historical data or biographical notes of old settlers, but he requests that they be brought to 214 South 7th street as soon as possible.

Already nearly one hundred views of old and new Brainerd, including many of the successful homecoming celebration, are included. There will be an ex-service men's section, the only record of its kind, for Crow Wing county, ever published.

Sketches of the organization and history of every leading business house, of every church, and of the principal civic and secret organizations are being included.

The book will contain about 100 pages, nearly one hundred illustrations, will be printed on the best of book paper, and well bound.

RESOLUTION

MAY START NIGHT SCHOOL

Due to Large Number of Inquiries Brainerd Commercial College May Add This Department Soon

In an interview with J. F. Goossen, principal of the Brainerd Commercial College, the unique position of the commercial school in regard to the business life of the community was brought up. Mr. Goossen says that the average person's conception of a business college is that it manufactures typists, stenographers and bookkeepers. While it is true that all business training schools teach the subjects necessary to these professions that is not their primary purpose, if they are properly managed.

No one thinks it unreasonable to obey the compulsory education law of this state but that law does not guarantee the parent nor the student that he will be fit for his life's work after he finishes the required courses. All that the public schools can do for their pupils is to develop the faculties and talents that they may possess. The commercial school then takes that pupil and teaches him subjects that develop him along special lines in an effort to make him self-supporting. While the public school is building the future voter of this country, the commercial school is no less surely developing the future business man of the community. Just as the one does not turn out the finished citizen so the other does not make the banker, merchant or professional man, but it surely does give him the training that with the proper application on his part will give him a wonderful advantage over the young man that has not had this training.

As the public realizes more and more that business principles are a vital part of the education of each of us the position of the commercial school becomes more secure.

"Even the U. S. government," says Mr. Goossen, "is recognizing the necessity of having good training centers for office help all over the country. We are in receipt of letters every few days from the U. S. civil service commission asking for aid in filling positions in the different departments of the government. The demand so far exceeds the supply at this time that more of the positions have recently been opened to women in the hope that they may be filled speedily."

Schools are urged to train applicants for these places. The Brainerd Commercial College is offering such a course during the coming term.

Due to the unusual number of inquiries received in regard to a night school for the coming winter, he says that a mass meeting will be held in the assembly room of the college in the near future to which all the people interested in night school work will be invited. An arrangement will be worked out whereby students will be handled in groups of ten so as to insure each one plenty of individual attention. Only the essential subjects in each course will be taught so that no time will be wasted.

MINNESOTA FARM FACTS AND FIGURES

As Presented in "The Farmer's" Special 125 Page Booklet Giving Valuable Facts

DATA ON CROW WING COUNTY

Value of Farm Property in County Set at $10,939,410; Picture of So. 6th St., Brainerd, Shown

The Webb Publishing Company, of St. Paul, publishers of "The Farmer" a weekly farm journal, has just issued a large 125 page booklet, entitled "Minnesota Farm Facts and Figures", which it is placing with all of its subscribers, and sending to farmers who are planning on locating in this state.

This booklet contains a very comprehensive survey of farm data in each section of the state. Each county is given a page write-up, showing productions, crop, dairy and livestock statistics, and an article on the towns and cities of the county, with a map of the county furnished by C. M. Babcock, state highway commissioner. Scattered throughout the book are pages of photographs depicting town and rural scenes in every part of the state.

Crow Wing county is given page 39, and the following data may be of interest to our citizens: The population of the county is given as 24,566, of which 13,091 are rural and 11,475 urban. The value of farm property in this county is set at $10,939,410. A picture of south 6th street, Brainerd, holds its space on a page of scenes of near-by towns.

The book is prefaced with an article by W. C. Coffey, the new dean of the State College of Agriculture, entitled, "What I Think of Minnesota", in which he gives his impressions of the state and its people, as a newcomer in this commonwealth. Dean Coffey brings out the fact that residents of other states do not comprehend the size and number of diversified industries of which this state boasts.

The interest taken by business men in agricultural problems is manifest, and impresses Mr. Coffey greatly. To him, this indicates a closer union and better feeling between farmers and merchants, a condition to be desired if any commonwealth is to progress.

Following Dean Coffey's article are several pages devoted to dairy and creamery information and statistics, next the extent of Minnesota's highway system, then the states distribution of wealth and following that the page write-ups of each county mentioned above.

This booklet is invaluable from the standpoint of state information and would make an excellent piece of literature for prospective homeseekers in this state.

BUY POTATOES, HELP THE FARMERS

The Department of Agriculture has estimated the potato crop this year at 440,000,000 bushels, the greatest crop, with one exception only, ever produced in the United States.

The most unfavorable market conditions that ever menaced a potato crop in America confronts the producers this year. In many places farmers having excellent quality potatoes can not bear the expense of harvesting their crops, so small is the income. In most sections the crop is worth less than the cost of production.

Many civic organizations have started a campaign to "Buy a Bag of Potatoes" or "Buy Your Winter's Supply of Potatoes Now" and it is planned to carry the movement to every state producing potatoes. As potatoes are a necessity in every home, and as one of America's greatest industries is on the verge of bankruptcy, the Brainerd Rotary Club requests the citizens of Crow Wing county to bear in mind how serious the situation is and wherever possible help create a market now by buying a bag at once or their supply for the winter. In this one respect the producers need the help of everybody and it requires nothing more than giving this matter one's attention now.

Built Better Because Built With a Creator's Pride

The true reason for the pronounced supremacy of the HOMER in the pipeless furnace field is more than a matter of good materials and skilled workmanship.

Into the Homer goes the careful painstaking workmanship, the constant striving for perfection of a creator working to make his dream become a practical reality.

Of what practical benefit is this to the Homer buyer? Just this: The hidden parts of the Homer are as honestly and carefully fashioned as the parts which are seen. The good apples are not all on top of the barrel. You will find that your fuel bill will be 30 to 50% less if you use a Homer. May we send our furnace man over and explain our proposition? BASEBALL PLAYERS HAVE GRIEVANCES

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Sept. 18.—General opinion rates professional baseball as one of the best paying sports for athletes.

Some mistaken notions, however, are spread regarding the big salaries paid to ball players, according to Ray J. Cannon, who is helping the players to form an organization.

Cannon says that the average salary of the professional baseball player is $3,000 a year.

One might have the opinion that most of the players were getting at least $5,000 a year if the yelps of the club owners were taken at face value.

During the White Sox expose it was brought out how little Comiskey was paying his stars and Phil Douglas recently claimed that he was getting only $6,500 before he was banished from the New York Giants.

Douglas was the best pitcher in the National League, and if his salary was the standard for the best players in the league, the players have good reason to howl.

Cannon maintains that the club owners keep boasting about the salary paid to big stars and that they intentionally allow figures twice the amount of the real salary paid to the stars to be published and circulated.

It was generally believed that Babe Ruth was getting close to $100,000 a year from the Yanks, until Ben Johnson let the information slip out that he wasn't getting half that sum.

Salary disputes are not the only grievances behind the organization of the players' union. The men who are making the game good for immense profits to the club owners object to the form of the contracts which doesn't give them a chance and they also kick against conditions which make them virtual slaves.

Specific instances are cited where good ball players have been transferred out of the major leagues to bolster up a minor league club in which the possessor of his contract had an instance. The charge, of course, was accompanied by a decrease in salary.

The players claim there are many good players now in the minor leagues who could get jobs on several clubs if a "working agreement" were not working. The case of Pete Kilduff is one where a salary dispute with the Brooklyn club caused him to be sent to the minors and is causing him to stay there.

It is understood that all the regular players of the New York Giants have joined the proposed union; that twenty of the members of the Cincinnati Reds and a generous representation of all the other National League clubs are on the role.

The organization has not been so completed in the American League, because the organizers haven't had the opportunity to interview the American League players.

The names of all the players will be announced as soon as the organization is actually completed.

AMUSEMENTS

Mae Murray at Lyceum

Mae Murray, the pretty film actress who has scored recently in "On with the Dance" and "The Right to Love," made an unexpected debut in motion pictures. She was formerly a stage dancer and was featured in the Ziegfeld Follies of 1915. Her act opened with the showing of a few feet of film, in which Miss Murray was depicted running down the aisle of the theatre to the stage. At this point the curtain lifted and disclosed the dancer in person standing before the footlights in identically the same costume that she wore on the screen.

MAE MURRAY in the GEORGE FITZMAURICE production "THE RIGHT TO LOVE" A PARAMOUNT PICTURE

It happened that on the opening night of the Follies several film producers were present. All of them noted the excellent manner in which Miss Murray screened and saw possibilities in her as a photoplay actress. The result was that the following morning she received no less than five offers to appear in motion pictures. She accepted the one made by Adolph Zukor, because the picture which he had in mind for her, role

To Former Employees of the Northern Pacific Railroad Co. Now On Strike

This morning's edition of the Minneapolis Tribune gives an account of an address delivered by Mr. R. A. Henning, at a meeting of railroad men at the Assembly Room in the Minneapolis Courthouse last evening, from which I quote the following:

"The Conference also was given information that the Burlington Road was willing to subscribe to the agreement provided the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific came along. I called Mr. Donnelly, President of the Northern Pacific, over long distance phone, but he told me that under no circumstances would the Northern Pacific be willing to accept.

"I gave this information to B. M. Jewell, head of the Railway Employees' Department of the American Federation of Labor. Shortly afterwards we received information from the East that there was a possibility of both the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern signing up before the fifteen-day limit, provided in the agreement, expired."

In the negotiations I have had with Mr. Henning since the strike began I have not known of any instance in which he has told an untruth, and, therefore, I assume that he did receive the information, which in the passage above quoted he says was received "from the East."

Who gave it he does not say, nor do I know or even suspect. Certainly no one having authority to speak for the Northern Pacific gave it, and my purpose in addressing this communication to you is to say to you, directly, that whoever gave it, the information is incorrect.

There is not the remotest possibility that the Northern Pacific will accept the proposed basis of settlement within fifteen days, or at any time. I say this regretfully, because the management would be glad to see restored to their former positions all of our former employees, excepting a few who have disregarded all rules for conducting, fairly, a struggle such as that in which we are engaged. It was this desire which moved us to keep your places open until long after other lines had begun to employ new men, and it was the same desire which occasioned our participation in the settlement negotiations in New York three weeks ago.

All of our efforts failed because your leaders declined in July, and again in August, to accept a settlement at least as favorable to you as the settlement which they accepted in Chicago last Wednesday, and it is to me a matter of deep regret that what we were able and willing to do in July, and again in August, we cannot do now without sacrificing men whose fidelity to us has given them the right to expect that we will not betray them.

President,

It was generally believed that Babe Ruth was getting close to $100,000 a year from the Yanks, until Ban Johnson let the information slip out that he wasn't getting half that sum.

Salary disputes are not the only grievances behind the organization of the players' union. The men who are making the game good for immense profits to the club owners object to the form of the contracts which doesn't give them a chance and they also kick against conditions which make them virtual slaves.

Specific instances are cited where good ball players have been transferred out of the major leagues to bolster up a minor league club in which the possessor of his contract had an instance. The charge, of course, was accompanied by a decrease in salary.

The players claim there are many good players now in the minor leagues who could get jobs on several clubs if a "working agreement" were not working. The case of Pete Kilduff is one where a salary dispute with the Brooklyn club caused him to be sent to the minors and is causing him to stay there.

It is understood that all the regular players of the New York Giants have joined the proposed union; that twenty of the members of the Cincinnati Reds and a generous representation of all the other National League clubs are on the role.

The organization has not been so completed in the American League, because the organizers haven't had the opportunity to interview the American League players.

The names of all the players will be announced as soon as the organization is actually completed.

Mae Murray at Lyceum

Mae Murray, the pretty film actress who has scored recently in "On with the Dance" and "The Right to Love," made an unexpected debut in motion pictures. She was formerly a stage dancer and was featured in the Ziegfeld Follies of 1915. Her act opened with the showing of a few feet of film, in which Miss Murray was depicted running down the aisle of the theatre to the stage. At this point the curtain lifted and disclosed the dancer in person standing before the footlights in identically the same costume that she wore on the screen.

A PARAMOUNT PICTURE

It happened that on the opening night of the Follies several film producers were present. All of them noted the excellent manner in which Miss Murray screened and saw possibilities in her as a photoplay actress. The result was that the following morning she received no less than five offers to appear in motion pictures. She accepted the one made by Adolph Zukor, because the picture which he had in mind for her, "Dangerous Curves Ahead,"

It Cokes Coal—Forms No Clinkers.

This stove burns any fuel—coals, wood, slack, coke, soft or hard coal. It cokes coal, and the room, instead of the chimney, gets the heat. The perfected hot blast converts even the black carbon in the smoke into warmth.

The patented cone-center grate prevents clinkers. Boiler-iron body, seamless ash pit, doors ground to fit and heavy over-size parts indicate the quality that the Round Oak Stoves build into this heater.

"Sweet Kitty Bellairs," was her favorite story.

Miss Murray is at present appearing with David Powell in George Fitzmaurice productions. The second one of these is "The Right to Love," which is on view at the Lyceum theatre, tonight and Tuesday. It is a Paramount release.

"Dangerous Curves Ahead"

A motion picture that will strike home to many young American married couples is "Dangerous Curves Ahead!," a Goldwyn feature written by Rupert Hughes, which comes to the Lyceum for two days, commencing Wednesday. Miss Helene Chadwick, called the "most photographed girl in America," has the principal role.

DEMOCRATS LOSE IN FIGHT ON TARIFF

(By United Press.)
Washington, Sept. 18.—Democrats in the senate today lost their final fight to send the administration tariff bill back to conference.

Senator McCumber, temporary president, overruled the points of Senator Simmons, North Carolina, who held that conferees exceeded their authority by granting the president power to change rates on foreign and American valuation if he deemed such action necessary.

MINNESOTA SPUDS ROT; POOR SHIPPING ALLEGED

(By United Press.)
St. Paul, Sept. 18.—Thousands of potatoes will rot in Minnesota unless an equitable shipping rate is established at once.

This was the gist of a protest filed at the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission today, charging discrimination of shippers in Idaho, Utah and Wyoming.

Shortage of freight cars was also expected to impede shipment of Minnesota potatoes.

LIGHTNING DESTROYS MINNETONKA HOUSE

(By United Press.)
Minneapolis, Sept. 18.—Fire caused by lightning last night destroyed the $15,000 summer home of Mrs. Elma Tracy on the Crystal road at Minnetonka beach.

Volunteer fire companies prevented the fire spreading to ten other buildings.

To Former Employees of the Northern Pacific Railroad Co. Now On Strike

This morning's edition of the Minneapolis Tribune gives an account of an address delivered by Mr. R. A. Henning, at a meeting of railroad men at the Assembly Room in the Minneapolis Courthouse last evening, from which I quote the following:

"The Conference also was given information that the Burlington Road was willing to subscribe to the agreement provided the Great Northern and the Northern Pacific came along. I called Mr. Donnelly, President of the Northern Pacific, over long distance phone, but he told me that under no circumstances would the Northern Pacific be willing to accept.

"I gave this information to B. M. Jewell, head of the Railway Employees' Department of the American Federation of Labor. Shortly afterwards we received information from the East that there was a possibility of both the Northern Pacific and the Great Northern signing up before the fifteen-day limit, provided in the agreement, expired."

In the negotiations I have had with Mr. Henning since the strike began I have not known of any instance in which he has told an untruth, and, therefore, I assume that he did receive the information, which in the passage above quoted he says was received "from the East."

Who gave it he does not say, nor do I know or even suspect. Certainly no one having authority to speak for the Northern Pacific gave it, and my purpose in addressing this communication to you is to say to you, directly, that whoever gave it, the information is incorrect.

There is not the remotest possibility that the Northern Pacific will accept the proposed basis of settlement within fifteen days, or at any time. I say this regretfully, because the management would be glad to see restored to their former positions all of our former employees, excepting a few who have disregarded all rules for conducting, fairly, a struggle such as that in which we are engaged. It was this desire which moved us to keep your places open until long after other lines had begun to employ new men, and it was the same desire which occasioned our participation in the settlement negotiations in New York three weeks ago.

All of our efforts failed because your leaders declined in July, and again in August, to accept a settlement at least as favorable to you as the settlement which they accepted in Chicago last Wednesday, and it is to me a matter of deep regret that what we were able and willing to do in July, and again in August, we cannot do now without sacrificing men whose fidelity to us has given them the right to expect that we will not betray them.

CHARLES DONNELLY,
President,
Northern Pacific Railway.
